Please join us in this safe space to share, support and explore new ways to heal after your loss, either recent or past.

You are not alone, there are no set expectations. Sometimes being with others with shared experiences of grief and loss helps more than you may expect.

Please feel free to contact the coordinator to have a chat, get an information pack emailed out, or link in with other forms of support such as free counselling or our WAVES after suicide support and education group.
